

Hi Everyone!

May was the busiest month of racing I've ever had, and I enjoyed every second of it. There were five races in four weeks. I also attended some community events.

We kicked off the month at Toyota Speedway in the number 56 NASCAR Limited Late Model. We qualified 4th and finished 4th in the main event. I learned so much during the race. First, I drastically improved my starts, which was my main goal going into the race. Second, I learned what it's like to make passes in a stock car. It takes a lot of work! My competitors were putting up a good fight, and I had a blast racing back and forth with them for the fourth place position.

The second race of the month was in the Focus Midget at All American Speedway in Roseville, and it was the first double feature I ever participated in. There's nothing better than racing two times in one night! We qualified 2nd and went into the first main event with a great setup.

Race fans come in all shapes and sizes !!!!!

We finished 5th place in the first race and then had a couple minutes to reset tire pressures in the pits before the second race. Since the car handled very well in the first race, I told my crew that I did not need anything changed on the setup going into the second main event of the night. Sure enough, we pulled off a 2nd place finish! It was a very successful race weekend for Jessica Clark Racing.

We earned our first pole at Stockton 99 Speedway the next weekend. Qualifying first was a huge moment for me. My ability to ramp up quickly has improved with each race, which has boosted my confidence and helped me drive the car at 102%. We had some issues with the right rear tire, and I ended up fighting for a 5th place finish in the main.

Special Thanks to:

Total
WOMAN
Gym & Day Spa

www.totalwomanspa.com

Ford Focus Midget on display at Winners Circle Racing Business Mixer

Finally, we returned to the Bullring in Las Vegas hoping to win another feature. As it turned out, we qualified .01 second off the pole and then came in 2nd in the main. Even though it wasn't as exciting as my previous trip to Las Vegas, I was pleased with the respectable finish.

Although the month was really packed with racing, I had the privilege of attending a couple community events to support local charities and share my passion for racing with others. I must have lifted 50 kids in and out of my Focus Midget at the Conejo Valley Chili Cookoff. I'm sure I gained some upper body strength that day! After the race in Roseville, we drove all night – literally – in order to be at the Triunfo YMCA Soapbox Derby. It was worth it! In fact, I've decided to build my own soapbox car this summer just for fun.

Soap Box Derby with Mayor Ned Davis (FLASH)

On a final note, I'm proud to be endorsing HotrodPartsGuide.com.

Car enthusiasts can find their hotrod parts "Fast and Easy."

It's only a click away!

As always - Thanks for your support !

Jessica Clark

Special Thanks to:

Total WOMAN
Gym & Day Spa

www.totalwomanspa.com

